Both players are former Columbus High players that were a part of Coach Hemmings' first recruiting class. "I asked the both of these guys to take a chance and sign with me to help in a rebuilding process. Adam and Carson believed in our system and knew they would develop here and have a chance to win a championship. I will always remember this first class as it has shown a great deal of character, motivation, work ethic, and a will to win."

Fuller and Tate have been a huge part of the success that Tigers have experienced the last two seasons.
