Fall Art Show featured Andrew college student work

CUTHBERT, GA. – The Andrew College Visual Art Program held a reception and open house on December 5 in a space downtown on the square which showcased students' work for the fall semester. Work featured paintings, drawings and two-dimensional design studies. New this year were a large number of ceramic pieces due to Andrew's fall semester opening of a Ceramics Studio downtown for classes.

Chris Johnson, assistant professor of visual art and director of the visual art program, said that he was very pleased with the quality of his students' work. He elaborated, "One of the most amazing parts of teaching art at Andrew College is witnessing the students' transition from being beginning students, unsure in their artistic abilities, into artists who are confident in their ideas, technique, uniqueness, and being open about sharing their perspective.
