Andrew College to dedicate Wilda and Jack Berryman Ceramics Studio

CUTHBERT, GA. – In conjunction with Homecoming activities, the Wilda and Jack Berryman Ceramics Studio located at 715 College Street, will hold a dedication and open house on Saturday, September 30 at 5 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

The building, donated to Andrew College by Karan and Max Pittman, has been under renovation and now serves as the center for the ceramics program at Andrew. Besides serving as studio space, the space also plays host to a kiln patented in 1897 and faculty and staff artwork.

President Linda R. Buchanan remarked, “I am so excited to be presenting our beautiful Ceramics Studio for all to view. The craftsmanship of our contractor, Bubba Johnson and his team was outstanding. They went above and beyond in bringing this old building back to life, seeing the space with eyes that only artists possess. We will have ‘before’ photos on display so visitors can witness the transformation.”

The building has held many roles throughout the years, most notably, serving as the Cuthbert Post Office from 1895-1905.
