Nursing department shows off new facilities

CUTHBERT, GA. – In conjunction with faculty and staff fall workshops, the new nursing program at Andrew College held an open house for faculty and staff at their new facilities on August 10.

Susan Askew, director of nursing said, “We are extremely pleased to be able to show off our new facilities to our faculty and staff and we are excited to announce that we have a full class for this new program. Nurses are in short supply in rural Southwest Georgia and Andrew College is working tirelessly to bring substantive, relevant programs to the community that result in local and regional jobs for graduates.”

Faculty and staff were greeted by President Buchanan and Interim Academic Dean Dick McCallum. They were then treated to tours of the facility which included instructional mannequin demonstrations and information related to the program.

The nursing program was developed thanks to a generous lead gift from Andrew College alums Kay and Tom Aderhold. The college is grateful to Phoebe Putney for the use of their building at the corner of McDonald and Church Streets.

An open house for the community will be held at a later date.
