Andrew College awards prestigious scholarships

CUTHBERT, GA. – On March 18, Andrew College hosted Georgia high school seniors for its annual Pitts Academic Scholarship Competition. Contestants arrived early that Saturday morning in hopes of earning a full-ride scholarship to cover tuition, room and board. After a session of rigorous scholastic competition, two winners distinguished themselves: Maris Guzman, a senior at Veteran's High School from Kathleen, Georgia; and Megan Carlson, a senior at Jefferson High School from Jefferson, Georgia. Each of these students was awarded a Margaret A. Pitts Scholarship, Andrew's highest academic honor.

The two high school students join the Andrew family with strong academic profiles, solid standardized test scores and noteworthy extracurricular involvement. Beginning in August 2017, Guzman plans to study the social sciences and play volleyball. Carlson expects to pursue biology and play for the Lady Tigers softball team.

Funding for these new Pitts Scholars comes from the William I. H. and Lula E. Pitts Foundation. Established in 1941, the Pitts Foundation has continuously supported Andrew College for nearly three-quarters of a century. Andrew's Pitts Library, which sits at the heart of campus, is named in the family's honor.
